Be part of an exciting and rapidly growing community of people at TIGE 2012, representing diverse professions, cultures and socioeconomic backgrounds from around the world, who are on a quest for a sustainable, just and equitable global economy.

Through leadership inspired by personal commitment and transformational change, we have started to co-create a movement for an integral world economy, building on TIGE conferences over the past five years. Based on core spiritual values and aligning with environmental, social and cultural needs, we will explore appropriate down-to-earth solutions and interdisciplinary thinking.

AIM - To create a space where new economic thinking meets everyday practice, where experienced business connects with young leadership and new opportunities emerge from this symbiosis. The conference is built around Work Streams and a Hub Space that enable a high level of participation, dialogue in diversity and empowerment for action.
